

Process Map from Solicitation to Initiation for All Studies

This process map illustrates the pathway from identifying potential study opportunities or receiving a Confidentiality Disclosure Agreement (CDA) request to the initiation of the study. It delineates specific responsibilities for the study team and research administrative offices. This process should be utilized regardless of funding source* when initiating a study.

